Dabu Bench

The Vagr Dabu Bench is a sculptural exploration of movement within mass. Eight feet long, it curves fluidly in both elevation and section, challenging conventional geometry while retaining structural strength.

Crafted in durable concrete with subtle metallic undertones, Dabu Bench balances monumentality with refinement. Its curvilinear form interacts beautifully with light, casting soft gradients that lend the piece a calm, almost Zen-like presence.

The hand-carved side panels inspired by the traditional Dabu printing craft of Rajasthan. Translating the rhythmic, mud-resist textile motifs into carved surface detailing, the bench bridges contemporary form with vernacular artistry. This tactile reinterpretation adds cultural depth and texture, softening the materiality while enriching its narrative.

Dabu Bench is both functional seating and sculptural expression – a harmonious blend of innovation, heritage, and form.
